

Brightwave Kettles Ltd. — Company Handbook

About the Company

Brightwave Kettles Ltd. is a small home-appliance company founded in 2019 by Amara Okafor in the city of Lahore, Pakistan. The company designs and sells electric kettles and a small range of related kitchen accessories. Brightwave employs 42 people and ships its products to customers across Pakistan, the United Arab Emirates, and the United Kingdom. The company's official mascot is a blue heron named Pip.

Products

Brightwave sells three kettle models. The Sparrow is the entry-level model, priced at 4,500 rupees, and holds 1.2 litres of water. The Falcon is the mid-range model, priced at 7,200 rupees, holds 1.7 litres, and includes a temperature-control dial. The Eagle is the premium model, priced at 11,000 rupees, holds 1.7 litres, and is the only model with a keep-warm function that maintains water temperature for up to two hours.

Warranty and Returns

Every Brightwave kettle comes with a two-year warranty that covers manufacturing defects but does not cover accidental damage. Customers may return any product within 30 days of delivery for a full refund, provided the product is unused and in its original packaging. Refunds are processed within seven business days of the returned item being received.

Customer Support

The Brightwave customer support team can be reached by email at help@brightwave.example. Support is available Monday to Friday, from 9:00 AM to 6:00 PM Pakistan Standard Time. The team does not operate on weekends or on public holidays. The average response time to a support email is four hours.

Shipping

Standard shipping within Pakistan takes three to five business days and costs a flat fee of 300 rupees. Orders above 10,000 rupees qualify for free standard shipping. International shipping to the United Arab Emirates and the United Kingdom takes ten to fourteen business days. Brightwave does not currently ship to any country other than the three listed above.
